Education Development in Thailand

Scholarship Program

EDF scholarship program provision has been intentionally providing continuous support to cover less fortunate students at all levels from pre-elementary to high school and vocational level and also keep trying to reach a university level. At present, EDF has a high commitment to consistently expand a scholarship support to more numbers of disadvantaged children especially for those students who completed their compulsory education at junior high school level. As EDF strongly believe that education is a kind of endless contribution; therefore EDF would like to increase our scholarship assistance at high school, vocational and university level this year. Moreover, EDF has focused on consulting service and capacity building activities in the form of English camp for high school scholars, scholar-relationship building activity for university scholars and online consulting service for all scholars.

Since 1988, EDF has been providing 354,842 scholarship for Thai underprivileged children, totaling 586,208,299 baht. In 2016, EDF provided 10,616 scholarships to needy students at different educational levels, totaling 27,875,100 baht.

Development Project

Apart from scholarship programs, EDF has initiated educational development projects that aim to promote appropriate environment for the students in far rural schools. With school-based development model to make the schools as the project development center while providing students the chance to learn creatively in order to transfer what they have learned to their families and communities. As its heart, every project focuses on sustainable development, community participation and capacity building. Featured EDF's development projects are shown as follows:

Education Development and Student Capacity Improvement

School facility - teaching and learning equipment improvements like construction and renovation of library and restrooms, computer provision and training, and international idea exchange are parts of the successful outcomes which aim to improve teaching and learning environment both in and out of the classroom to empower the students to learn, reach their full potential with better quality of lives and step forward to their future confidently.

Education development and student capacity building projects in the FY2016 comprises; Mubadala Petroleum Integrated Development Project (MPID), sponsored by Mubadala Petroleum (Thailand) Co., Ltd. in Songkhla and in Prachuap Khiri Khan; Internet Friendship Project, sponsored by The Japan Foundation; Thai Cyber Kids, sponsored by Nokia Solutions and Networks (Thailand) Co., LTD.; English Camp for EDF high school girls, sponsored by the American Women's Club of Thailand (AWC); Preparation Camp for University Students, sponsored by Shinnyo-en, Japan

Study Trips and Internship Program

To promote informal international learning and internship experiences for both Thai and foreign school and university students through a field visit and learning how EDF works to improve quality of lives of less fortunate children and people, participating students will gain different perspectives and have a chance to join the local cultural exchange activities; exploring the way of life of rural Thai communities and home stay with local people; and improving their volunteer spirit to be a change agent for the society.

In FY2016, participants from three universities attend the study trips with EDF in Thailand, including those from Wakayama University, Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University (APU) in Japan and University of Washington (UW) in the United States of America.

Agriculture and Career Development

By targeting to support agricultural and career skill development projects in rural needy schools to promote the agricultural and necessary career skills, EDF believes that the student and their family will have better future career options. Moreover, the project's produce could support school lunch program and also generate income for participating students.

Agriculture and career development projects in the FY2016 include Barter Between Brothers Project (BBB) sponsored by UBS Securities (Thailand) Co., LTD.

Health Promotion Program

To promote the well-being to Thai children and youth in rural schools to be healthy physically and mentally; this allowed them to learn things effectively and transfer their knowledge of appropriate health care and sanitation to their families and communities.

Health promotion programs in FY 2016 are as follows:

Great Fruits Good Veggies (Season 2) sponsored by Thai Health Promotion Foundation (THPF)
